

Forcing television stations to preempt programming to present an anti-Kerry film just prior to a presidential election is a very disturbing example of the apparent power of a large company.

Broadcasting companies should be serving the public interest and not promoting one sided political views before an election without giving equal time to opposing views.

Please consider the seriousness of this situation in your licensing requirements.